Focus of the week: Improving Behaviour

This week we have 'reached for the stars,' increasing high expectations for behaviour around school so that everyone can learn to their full potential.

A week to reset

We started the week with assemblies about our values and we've carried on with determination to make our school the best possible place for learning it can be.

As soon as children enter school they are expected to be quiet and calm so they are ready to learn.

On the corridors, everyone makes sure they respect the school environment by walking and keeping cloakrooms tidy.

In classrooms, children listen carefully to each other and their teachers to make sure they learn as well as they possibly can.

During social times, children continue to be respectful and safe. When playtime is finished children are ready to learn again.

See the examples set out in the Dojo from Miss Crew for more details.

Comments from the Children

Children across the age ranges have told us that because behaviour is calmer, they are learning more. They especially enjoy the quiet around school so they can concentrate on their lessons.

Comments from Visitors

Visitors to our school this week have noticed how calm it is and how focused the children are.

They have also noted how much support staff give children throughout the school day.

Headteacher's Comment

Well done to year 3 and 4 pupils who went to the football tournament this week - Mr Sunderland said they played with pride and passion, we're all very proud of them!

We had our first exceptional learners reward today for pupils who have followed our Crosslee values all week. Well done for all their hard work.
